TURN OF A SEASON

LEAVES slowly yellow—ripen, fade and fall—
Stalks of the lily stiffen, bend and lean—
Small winds disturb the dry wild grasses, tall
Against the hedge, where single and serene
The rose blooms loveliest of all.

This Garden, yes, wherein all change takes place
In ordered sequence—wholesome and secure—
Bud and the leaping leaf, full summer's grace,
Innocent, under heaven as pure
As truth's unbroken pace . . .

But what of man? How many lie deprived
Of any vestige of this autumn's peace?
No golden sheaves for them; no honey hived;
Just the grim round of grief that shall not cease
Till human guilt is shrived.

—DORA HAGEMEYER.

Measures Talk Announced For League Meeting

Explanation of the measures on the ballot for the November election will be given at a public meeting of the League of Women Voters, Monterey Peninsula branch in conjunction with the Salinas branch, at the Memory Garden in Monterey on Thursday, October 26. Mrs. William McMahan, attorney of San Francisco, and elections chairman of the State Board of the league has been secured to give the discussion, it was announced at the board meeting of the Monterey branch Wednesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Louise Grigsby. The meeting will begin at noon with a box luncheon served by a women's organization at a moderate price, and is open to all persons interested.

Increasing registration of voters in Carmel was reported, with one office enrolling 300 in three weeks and others similarly active. Further means of reminding people will include radio announcements, as the "deadline" is Saturday, September 28. Political clubs have also stirred the citizens to secure their right to vote.

When the election is out of the way, the league will turn to the program selected for the year, the study and improvement of educational opportunities in California. The State Department of Education, with the strong approval of Governor Warren, is sponsoring a scientific survey of education in the state by Dr. Strayer of Columbia University, and the league will cooperate with the work in any way possible. Plans were discussed for securing a larger membership for this non-partisan organization which devotes its time to study of public and civic matters and to

B. A. Supports V-Day Closing

Forty members of the Carmel Business Association attended the dinner meeting at Whitney's on Wednesday evening.

The members were in favor of the voluntary closing of the places selling or serving liquor for twenty-four hours after the surrender of Germany. This was to cooperate with the request of the Governor of the State and the military authorities. A committee was appointed to contact all such establishments, with Willard Whitney, chairman, and to assist him, Harold Nielsen and Malcolm Woods.

The post card poll sent to all members on the closing of the Information Service showed forty votes in favor of closing and nine opposed, so for the present the service will be discontinued.

Other business discussed was the replacing of trash containers in the business district with view of eliminating at least part of the unsightly debris now on our streets.

The next meeting will probably be the last one of the year and there will be election of officers. Mr. J. O. Handley was appointed chairman of the nominating committee with Mrs. McGrury and Mr. Charles Childers to serve on his committee.

WHERE TO REGISTER

Everything is being done to facilitate and encourage citizens to register to vote before the deadline, Sept. 28. Two deputies will be stationed at the Monterey Trust and Saving Bank to take registrations, as well as the regular registrars at Staniford's Drug Store, Ocean and San Carlos, Woods' Dolores Pharmacy, Seventh and Dolores, and Robert Leidig's home over the Rohr Electrical Shop on Dolores street.

Back From Mexico, Military Mission To India, Dr. Henry Hart, Writer, Translator, Arrives in Carmel

Dr. Henry Hersch Hart, scholar, translator, lecturer, writer, expert on Oriental languages, is in town again this week, staying with Mrs. Hart in Rachel Morton's house on the dunes. This time he is just back from several months in Mexico where he took a thousand pictures. Photography is not his profession, nor his major interest—just a hobby. The last time he was in Carmel, at Christmas, he was in the uniform of a U. S. Army Major, and just back from India, where he had flown on a secret mission for the government. As a matter of fact, whenever he comes to Carmel—and he has been popping in and out of the village since 1913—he is generally just back from somewhere. This is readily understandable when one takes into consideration that he has been to Japan twenty-eight times, crossed the Pacific some thirty times, and made the Atlantic crossing on six occasions. In all this swift activity it is not surprising that he has "misplaced his ivory tower," which is fortunate, for it is impossible to associate the confinement of towers with this large-bodied scholar whose physical energy equals his mental force, who moves with a rush, whose words are jetted out, crisply and cleanly enunciated. Crisp also is the dark hair that curls vigorously, lively the brown eyes behind the glasses which are the only obvious attributes of the scholar. Yet scholarship is clearly evident in "Venetian Adventurer," Dr. Hart's life of Marco Polo, in which a legend becomes a human being, moving about in a tactile, glowing environment. Only through painstaking, scholarly research, not only in Venice, but wherever in Europe and the Orient there are documents that could throw light on the little understood Marco Polo, could be assembled the wealth of detail that brought to life for the first time the Venetian Adventurer.

"The Venetian Adventurer," published in 1941, is an extension of Dr. Hart's field, and in turning his interest to the Thirteenth Century European, he reversed the route of travel of his hero. Marco Polo came to the Orient from Europe. Dr. Hart's intellectual approach was from the Orient to Europe, while the Thirteenth Century and China were his and Marco Polo's common meeting ground, for Dr. Hart is first and foremost a student of Chinese language and culture. His translation of "The West Chamber," one of the most popular of the Thirteenth Century Chinese plays, was the first to be made in English and is valuable, not only because it makes the play available in poetic form to students and drama lovers, but also for the the introductory chapters dealing with the history and form of the Chinese drama. Scholarship as well as poetic gifts are again evident in his two books of trans-

Allen Knight Shakes Up PD Schedule

A new operating schedule for the Carmel Police Department was adopted at a meeting of the force called by Commissioner Allen Knight and Chief Roy Fraties on Monday afternoon in police headquarters at city hall.

The new schedule of beats for the patrolmen is the latest move on the part of Commissioner Knight and Chief Fraties in an effort to solve the manpower shortage problem by system. The first took place last week when they sent to Los Angeles for M. Paul Knepper, who is trained in police organization and file work, to take over the desk at police office during the peak hours, five in the evening to one in the morning, and to handle the booking and simplify the filing system.

Knepper's first assignment on arriving in Carmel last week was to work out the operating schedule for the force, which was adopted at Monday's meeting. The schedule, designed to give the town the greatest police protection possible with the number of men available, consists of an orderly arrangement of three patrol shifts, "beats" of eight hours each a day and providing for a relief man to work the beats of the other officers on

Bit Of Old Carmel Dies With End Of Press In The Forest

The Press in the Forest, a "private press which has been operated on Mountain View avenue for the past twenty years by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wright, has discontinued business and its property and equipment have been sold." These are the facts given by Mr. Wright, but there is something more.

To the old Carmelites who cherish the ways, the spirit and the institutions that made the village known over the world, it is the passing of something for which there will be regret.

To the many newcomers in Carmel it is well that they know that people have nostalgic memories of the time when they went about at night with a tomato can sheltering a candle that lit them on their way.

The pines and oaks and manzanita had their way and it was respected. Carmel had a flavor and fragrance all its own. It was then that the Wrights, partly with their own hands, built the little redwood house hidden from the street by trees and flowers, and set up The Press in the Forest. If you look sharply you will find the gate and the modest sign. Here they have devoted twenty years to the printing and binding of books that are a joy to hold in your hands, illuminated broadsheets and things that, printed by hand, are lifted out of the ordinary.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright expect to remain in Carmel for the present, and will be at their Mountain View avenue location for several weeks before moving to new quarters awaiting them.—Sara Farrar.

Carmel's Poetic Landscape Reason For Abundance Of Descriptive Painting At Current Oil Show

BY PATRICIA CUNNINGHAM

There are sixty-seven paintings by approximately forty different artists at the new oil show at the Carmel Art Gallery. The visitor will be charmed by the many interpretations of our beautiful Western landscape; and lovers of our spectacular coastline will have a hard time deciding which view they like the best.

The reviewer is struck by one outstanding characteristic of this show and that is, most of the paintings, with very few exceptions, have been done according to the traditions of the English and German academies of the last century. This so called "romantic" style puts emphasis on descriptive subject matter rather than on visual form, so that the idea expressed is infinitely more important than the means of expressing it.

There are probably few galleries anywhere nowadays where you would find such a persistent adherence to the academic styles of the 19th century. This is particularly notable, considering that the artists exhibiting in this show must come from a great variety of backgrounds and schooling. And in an era that is the culmination of so many cultural trends, especially in styles of painting, one wonders why we find here such emphasis on one particular approach to the problem of picture making.

Perhaps the explanation is in the locale. Here we have a type of scenery famous for its beauty, but of an elusive quality that is very hard to reproduce. It presents quite a challenge to any artist and, in order to catch its peculiar characteristics, he delves into all the descriptive power at his command. His problem is analogous to that of his academic predecessors who also felt they must accent subject matter. Their problem was forced on them by many different influences. They had to compete with the tremendous novelty of the discovery and development of photography in a time when the art of painting was greatly weakened by its long decline from the brilliance of the Italian Renaissance. But the painter had one great advantage over the photographer; the camera could take only what was in front of it, but the painter could draw on all the farthest realms of the imagination for his subjects, and

MAC Sponsors All Modern Program By Workshop Trio

Hommer Simmons, composer-pianist and founder of the Musical Workshop which bears his name, with two of his most able and well known co-artists will be in Carmel this coming week-end to present an all modern program in the Music Room of the Carmel High School at 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening.

Mr. Simmons, a graduate of U. S. C. and a student of Paderewski and Respighi, has concertized extensively in Europe and America. As a composer, he has many outstanding and justly popular works to his credit which have been played by some of the best symphony orchestras of the country.

He started composing in his early teens, and his works now include compositions in all the major forms for piano, two pianos, orchestra, string quartette, violin and voice. His first large work, "Phantasmia", was given its first performance in the Hollywood Bowl, under the baton of Eugene Goossens with the composer as soloist, and has since been very widely played both in America and Europe, everywhere meeting with great success.

The other two members of this outstanding trio are Miss Frances Forster, violinist, and Miss Dorothea Matson, cellist. Miss Forster, a graduate of the music department of U. C. L. A. and a pupil of Gregor Cherniavsky and Joseph Piastro, has appeared in concert tours throughout Canada and the West Coast, and is at present supervisor of instrumental music for the Los Angeles City schools. Miss Matson, also a graduate of U. C. L. A., studied cello with Axel Simonsen and Fritz Gaillard and has been associated with many chamber music groups in Los Angeles and the Bay Area.

When Mr. Simmons founded the Workshop, the avowed purpose of the organization was the presentation of unusual and outstanding works in all forms (except orchestral) with a liberal inclusion of works of contemporary composers, which purpose would seem to be most happily achieved in the building of the program for this coming Saturday:

Trio in A Minor: Modere, Pantoum, Passacaille, Final—Ravel; Scicilian, Casella; Three Nocturnes: Andante, Andante quieto, Tempestoso—Bloch; Scherzo from Trio in D Minor, Arensky; Trio No. 3: Allegro Appassionato, Andante piangendo, Allegro energico—Simmons.—Sophie E. Harpe.

Three Troup Leaders Needed For Brownies

Mrs. J. M. Finelli, executive secretary of the Monterey Peninsula Girl Scouts, is appealing for leadership for the Brownies, Intermediate and Senior troupes, in Carmel. There are six troupes and only two or three leaders.

Three training courses are open to volunteers. The Intermediate course will open October 17. Classes from 1 to 3 p. m. at the Monterey Scout House, 404 El Estero. Instruction for Brownie leaders, October 23, from 10 to 12 a. m. and for the Senior leaders the course opens October 26, hours 10 to 12 a. m., classes to be held at the Scout House.

Mrs. Finelli will be glad for any one interested to telephone her Monday through Friday, Monterey 4482. Mrs. C. J. Ryland, chairman of the Carmel District Committee, will also receive applications. Telephone 404. Anyone over 18 will be acceptable.

Town Full Of People Who Can Read; Rush At Harrison Library

August was the biggest month in the history of the Ralph Chandler Harrison Memorial Library, with circulation reaching 400 a day for several days during the month, Miss Elizabeth Niles, librarian, reported this week.

During the month there were from one to five new registrations daily, "the most ever, even in the days when Carmel was a summer resort," Miss Niles said.

As for what books are in greatest demand, the Carmel library runs true to form: best selling fiction, best selling non-fiction, then war books in the order named.

Clearance of Fine Used Pianos

(From Our Rental Department)

This year the pianos offered in our Clearance Sale of fine instruments are values that will be prized more than ever by those fortunate enough to obtain them. The demand for used pianos has been tremendous, and prices have been skyrocketed throughout the country by those dealers and individuals who are taking advantage of this condition.

We are proud to be able to make this statement:

Since the Spring of 1942 we have refrained from selling pianos except in a few rare cases, always selling at or below OPA ceiling prices.

Never before have we been so fortunate as to have outstanding makes as listed here. These pianos are all from our rental department.

Steinway Parlor Concert Grand, Style B, 6'11".

This most illustrious and world-renowned piano, used by more than 90% of the world's great artists has been thoroughly re-built like new—new hammers, new felts, new strings, plate and case re-finished in a beautiful, satin ebony. We believe the tone of this piano surpasses anything that is on the Peninsula.

Original price: $2465.00 - Our below ceiling price: $1825.00

Terms: $372.13 down—balance monthly.

Baldwin Parlor Grand, 6'3".

did so with gusto. So the competition between painting and photography never became a serious issue, but it was there, nevertheless.

Impressionism released color from the drabness of chiaroscuro, and post-impressionism rediscovered form for its own sake, and its exponents insisted on the integrity of painting as a visual experience. They decried its leaning so heavily on the devices of literature for its appeal.

And so, by examining what went on in the past, we arrive at a clearer understanding of the present. We see that our poetic landscape tempts the artist to transport of description, so his style is similar to those former artists who aimed to describe rather than to interpret experience. Thus we have these landscape portraits which are so beautifully suited to the visitor's desire of taking a bit of our famous scenery with him when he reluctantly leaves this locale.

The paintings of Marjorie Doolittle lend themselves to a different sort of technical analysis because they present a strongly integrated formal pattern to convey the subject. Her scene of the Monterey wharf gives the observer that kinetic feeling of space which is of her theatre of action is in flux and movement because of this splendid plastic coherence. This strong formal pattern ably supports her characteristic flair for the decorative elements and her rich and glowing color. Her method of composing stems from the great masters of special arrangement such as Sassetta and Giotto, although she has adapted their principles to her contemporary style. Her Point Lobos Cypress is almost passionately expressive, because you feel the air around these rocks and trees as well as the details of the objects themselves.

It is most interesting to note the development of Margaret Leveck as a painter of real stature and distinction. As is often the case with her, the love of homely and gentle aspects of daily living has inspired her to produce one of the most charming and satisfying interiors that you could expect to find anywhere. Her subtle control of interior lighting effects depends on the manipulation of color values as well as color intensities. When a painter arrives at such a control of the lightness and darkness of color, he has practically solved the problem of making color function as a light rather than dead pigment. It is an enviable accomplishment and any painter may be proud of such an achievement.

Again one is reminded of the Dutch masters whose excellence rests almost entirely on this one quality. One never tires of looking at such a painting because it flatters the eye so that there is never any risk of visual weariness.

The gallery is happy to present new exhibiting members in this show: Dawn Harwood offers a sparkling view of crab boats at the Monterey wharf and a very strong rendering of two knarled and twisted Point Lobos Cypress. Richard Lofton also goes to Point Lobos for his subject of cypress and rocks. The dynamically constructed color planes of this painting provokes the observer's interest to see more of his work and arouse the expectation that this artist will have a great deal that is worth while to show.

Marjorie Schiffler is also a newcomer. Her portrait of the ancient Chinese woman certainly conveys a great deal of feeling, and the deep blues and blacks are handled with such efficiency that one must stand and admire her technical skill. She brushes on color with apparent ease and makes it work toward textual effects as well as the construction of form. She has presented a picture as well as a portrait.

Several other portraits in the show will cause the observer to stop and look with admiration. Martin Baer, Howard Smith, and Abel Warshawsky amply fulfill their admirers' expectations, and Olive Lawson has a portrait of a lady which is full of personality and quaint charm. One almost has to class Lee Randolph's painting of an old deserted house with the portraits. It so lends itself to the terms one uses in describing portraits because, here again, one has a definite personality felt in its bleak aspect and the nostalgic mood that the painter has so successfully evoked.

It is not possible to present a painting-by-painting description of such an unusually large show. Not only is the large oil-gallery filled, but the small middle gallery and the entrance hall as well. However, the quality of these paintings can speak for themselves.

The new show in the water color gallery deserves a review all to itself and will be written up for next week's Pine Cone. It is scheduled to be on view for a month, while the oil show will continue for two months.

Pathfinders To Meet For First Class After Vacation

Dr. Crowther's popular class of "Pathfinders," for young men and young women of High School and College age, will enter on its 4th year next Sunday morning at 9:45, at the Church of the Wayfarer.

Each student will be given a textbook, written by one of America's outstanding youth leaders, dealing with the issues faced by youth in their everyday life. The course will be inspirational and instructive. The class will also have social and recreational features. All young people who have no other church obligation are cordially invited.

... it's still abalone

—BY OLIVER C. BASSETT

I have just finished X-ing out the seventeenth line leaving IT'S STILL ABALONE, neatly typed in caps, the only legible words. "This is silly," I say to myself, "this is very, very, silly—this is just a case of nerves—make yourself known—tell people who you are." I stop thinking and ponder on such an assignment. What kind of description? I guess about the only thing is—if you happen to see a mass of tangled hair, with a cornob sticking out from under it, trotting along the sidewalk, (or more probably sitting down) it's possible that that's me.

Whew! That's over. Next, I would like to tell you a little about the heading of this column, which is to be a weekly affair—mostly about sports. "Yes," says a recent citizen of Carmel to another recent citizen, "that is a very nice title no doubt, but why?"

Well, back in the days when Carmel was first getting under way, the abalone was quite a cherished thing and a poem started growing about it, with each artist who settled here adding a verse. I came across a few stanzas printed several weeks ago in The Pine Cone and remember seeing one line which ended "no matter how you pound it, it's still abalone." If you still want to know why, I can't explain it.

The formalities are over, and sitting down with lightened heart, I am now able to go ahead and write about somebody else.

Before leaving the subject of abalones, my thoughts turn to Mr. Rudy Rudd, the High School coach, who last Saturday meandered down the coast a few miles at the early hour of 4 a. m. Returning rather wet at the still early hour of 6 a. m., he found some slight satisfaction in the fact that Bishop's didn't have abalone on the menu either.

"You understand, of course," coach said to me this morning, "that abalones are no cinch, but, anyway, we have a great football team."

Wishing to find out the approximate possibility of securing an abalone, I spoke to Mr. Lemon, local sportsman, who told me that the percentage is rather low at the present time due to high tides, except late at night, which will continue for several days.

Probing deeper into the subject of what is possible around here for the rest of September, I found that there isn't much. Doves and abalone are the ticket, with Doves lasting for the rest of the month, and abalone staying on till January 14.

Going back to the recent Carmel citizen who didn't understand about—you know what. It worries me that he may have the same vague knowledge of the flora on this peninsula, so I have set down a few lines about one of the things which he is most likely to run into, and more than likely to wish he hadn't.

SCIENCE CALLS IT RHUS DIVERSILOBA

You see it here as it climbs a tree. Or trails its vines in the shrubbery. It may be red with a whitish drupe. It may be the color of pea-green soup.

A horse comes up and takes it in—Sure you're as tough as a horse's bin, But just remember I told you folk—When you itch and itch, it's ch poison oak.

(Continued from page 1) their regular scheduled days off. The relief man also takes double shift with number three beat (the peak beat, four p. m. to twelve midnight) on the peak days, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, thus providing for two men to be on patrol duty when they are most needed.

The four officers: Earl Wermuth, H. H. Huntington, Mike Stalter, and Ben Norwood, change beats monthly, so that the man who works No. 1 beat, twelve midnight to eight a. m. in September, takes No. 2 beat, eight a. m. to four p. m. in October; No. 3 beat, four p. m. to 12 mid-night in November and serves as relief man in December. The system not only provides for the orderly utilization of the manpower to the best advantage for the protection of the town, but gives the men a working schedule for the next twelve months so that they can know in advance what hours they will be on duty and when they will have their days off.

It also frees Chief Frates from patrol work so that he can be in charge of the office during the day, allowing him time for the detailed work of investigation that is generally necessary before an arrest can be made, work for which Frates is especially trained.

Knepper, who was here for several weeks in the summer to take charge of the police office during the vacation of Tax Collector Thomas Hefling, was executive officer for Allen Knight when the latter was commandant of the Nautical/Marine Force. Mrs. Knepper, who will join him here in the Spring, is now in Los Angeles, as is their daughter, Mrs. H. T. Gammon, whose husband is in active duty in the Navy in the South Pacific. There is also a four months' old grandson, Teddy.

Like Xmas! Lions Have Movie And Piano All At Once

Lions Club members were entertained at their Tuesday night dinner meeting by a technicolor travelogue movie of the old silk caravan route from China to Europe that was a main traveled road in the days of Marco Polo. The movie, procured from General Motors by Lloyd Weer, was run off on the High School projector.

Another feature of the meeting was the first appearance of a piano, recently purchased by the club, so the members can have accompaniment to their community singing. Guests of the evening were Howard Burns and Bill Muscutt.

WAC Enlistees Can Pick Assignments Only Till Oct. 31

Women who are flirting with the idea of joining the Women's Army Corps and want to pick their own station-job assignments will have to hurry if they want to choose an initial station-job assignment within the Ninth Service Command, according to Lt. Helen F. Read of the local WAC Recruiting Service. After October 31 all enlistees will go to general assignment and opportunity for choice of station and job will end.

It is explained that the Army has a greater need for flexibility in assigning WACs to military installations where the need for their skills is most pressing. While recruits may continue to ask for and receive assignments to the Army Air Forces, Army Ground Forces, Army Special Services, or Medical Department, they will no longer be able to choose the military installations to which they will be assigned.

Eligible women who are interested in full details regarding the opportunities in the Women's Army Corps are invited to call at the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, care of Chamber of Commerce, Monterey, California (Phone 8544) for an interview.

All Saints' Members Ready To Build New Church After War

An announcement was made at the services of morning prayer at All Saints' Church by the Rector, the Rev. C. J. Hulsewe, which was received with great enthusiasm. Earlier in the week the last payment was made on the purchase price of the White Cedars property, situated between Dolores and Lincoln Streets, facing Ninth. This property was bought in March, 1941, from Mrs. Margaret Kilpatrick for the sum of $15,000 and now comes into full possession of the congregation.

Work will begin on detailed plans of the building to be erected, Arnold Constable, the well-known church architect in charge, and approximate estimate of costs involved will be procured. With a number of gifts already received, it is expected that when restrictions on building materials are lifted, actual construction will begin. Various organizations of All Saints' Church are working on projects of furnishings needed within the church structure.

It Would Have Been Close If There Had Been Any Contest

The returns from the one and only Consolidated Precinct A for the Sanitary District election showed all the candidates hitting the tape neck and neck and all elected.

Hugh Comstock polled 62 votes, Clayton B. Neill, 61, Dr. T. Grant Phillips, 62, of the 63 total votes for three Sanitary Board members. Bernard Rowntree netted 62 for District Assessor.

As there were three vacancies for board members, and only three candidates running, and as the District Assessor was also unopposed for re-election, excitement didn't quite reach the boiling point, though over double the number of voters turned out than balloted in the uncontested school board election several months ago.

Everything Comes At Once To The P. O., Box Rent And Xmas

Along with the excitement of Overseas Christmas mailing, box rent came due at the post office this week, with a long line of avid boxless new citizens waiting for somebody to be dispossessed for failure to pay box rent, Assistant Postmaster Fred Mylar said yesterday.

The overseas Christmas mailing, which started September 15, has been lively at the local post office and is increasing in volume daily, with a last minute rush expected on October 15, the last day packages can be mailed to the men in the service overseas without a written request from the service man who is to receive it. Only one package may be mailed a week during the overseas Christmas mailing period; it is not to be over five pounds in weight, the length plus the girth is not to exceed thirty-six inches, and it is not to be over fifteen inches long.

Assistant Postmaster Mylar is urgent in pointing out the necessity of getting the packages off early, to those men in remote places. Last year twenty million packages were sent overseas to service men. This year it is expected that the number will reach seventy million. Such volume can be delivered on time only if the mailing is done early. Mylar also reminds that the gifts must go in strong boxes tied with stout cord. Hundreds of Christmas boxes were broken up last year before they reached Los Angeles and had to be discarded.

Things you may not know about a busy western neighbor

Southern Pacific has been a part of western life for three quarters of a century. We've had our share of brickbats, and we've had our share of praise. Mostly we've been taken pretty much for granted, like the paper boy or the milkman.

Since Pearl Harbor, though, people generally have regarded Southern Pacific and the other railroads with new understanding and appreciation. Now, when the chips are down, they seem to realize how indispensable the railroads really are.

Because of Southern Pacific's strategic location in relation to the war against Japan, we have been called upon to carry an enormous westbound burden. In addition, we are handling vast quantities of raw materials and finished products of greatly expanded western industries, plus an abnormally large east-bound movement of foodstuffs.

The six facts below may help explain the unprecedented burden we are carrying, and why our service to civilians is not as good as we'd like it to be:

1 In freight and passenger volume, Southern Pacific is the third largest railroad in America. Only the Pennsylvania and New York Central are carrying a bigger load than Southern Pacific.

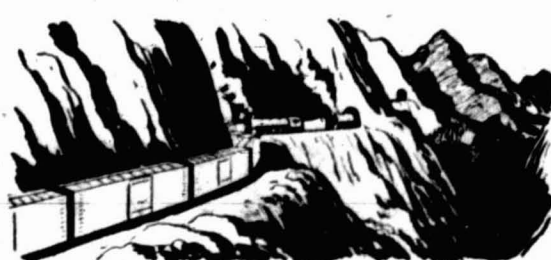

2 Southern Pacific's 15,000 miles of line (more than any other United States railroad) are predominately single track, requiring the most accurate and exacting kind of railroading.

3 Southern Pacific serves more military and naval establishments than any other railroad in the U. S. From New Orleans to Portland an endless chain of air bases and encampments adjoins our line.

4 We serve more military meals to personnel of the armed forces than any other two U. S. railroads combined. And, of course, service men and women have first call on our restricted ration points.

5 Southern Pacific crosses innumerable mountain ranges, and has to climb more major summits than any other U. S. railroad. It takes more locomotives to pull trains up steep mountain grades.

6 Southern Pacific has the main north and south line along the Pacific Coast, serving the principal ports of embarkation from San Diego to Portland. Naturally, troop trains must come first with us.

"The folks should see me now"

"POP never would let me run the tractor for fear I'd put it on the blink. Wish he could see me handling this baby!"

Hundreds of thousands of our soldiers, who went away little more than boys, will come back mature men with fine mechanical training, glad to turn their new skills to the running of the farm.

But they're never going to be satisfied with worn-out equipment, or out-of-date machinery. They're going to want the best. And after handling our tanks and planes and guns, they're going to know what the best is!

While your son is away, are you really preparing for his return? You're buying War Bonds, yes—because it's the duty of all of us to help meet the expense of this war for our Freedom. But are you buying enough to lay the foundation for a prosperous postwar farm as well?

5 REASONS FOR INCREASING YOUR WAR BOND PURCHASES

1. The tempo of this war is hitting its highest point. Government expenditures for war are at the peak. MORE MONEY IS NEEDED . . . NOW!
2. In proportion to WHO HAS THE MOST MONEY, individuals are not buying their share of War Bonds. America must correct this situation.
3. War Bonds provide the farmer and rancher with the financial reserve he must have to survive the ordinary ups and downs of farming as a business.
4. Money will be needed urgently at a future date to replace and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.
5. War Bonds are the safest investment in the world, return a good rate of interest, are easy and convenient to buy . . . from bank, post office, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association.

Carmel Church Women Attend Grove Talk, Exhibit Of Indian Art And Culture

A wonderfully interesting exhibit of products of Indian life, arts, and crafts featured the meeting of women of the Christian Church of Pacific Grove held at Holman's Solarium on Wednesday, September 13, at which several Carmel women were present. Guest of honor was Mrs. R. W. Blosser of San Francisco, regional secretary of the Missionary Education Movement and Board Member of the Christian church for northern California. The affair began with a box luncheon, with tea and coffee served by the women's organization.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. C. E. Holman and Mrs. W. R. Holman, the latter of whom furnished the beautiful display of Indian work from her outstanding collection accumulated over a period of many years. As the special subject of study for this year for the women's organizations of the Protestant churches in the United States is the Indian people of the country, their needs, their opportunities, their contribution to our life, and how the white people can aid them to develop their natural abilities, this exhibit furnished an appropriate introduction to the year's program. Mrs. Blosser will be remembered by many local women, as for many years when the M. E. M. conference was held annually at Asilomar before the government leased that camp, she conducted one of the study groups and made many friends in this area.

Bible selections will include the following passage from Isaiah 12: 2, 3: "Behold, God is my salvation; I will trust, and not be afraid: for the Lord JEHOVAH is my strength and my song; he also is become my salvation. Therefore with joy shall ye draw water out of the wells of salvation."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "Let us learn of the real and eternal, and prepare for the reign of Spirit, the kingdom of heaven, —the reign and rule of universal harmony, which cannot be lost nor remain forever unseen," (p. 208).

manner of life, his culture and contribution to our everyday economy. The aborigines of other continents, Australia for example, were of rather low mentality, but those of the Americas had attained a high level of culture before the white Europeans came to these shores. Three great gifts characterized their life: agriculture—seven-tenths of our ordinary foods today were staples in the Indian diet, domesticated grains, potatoes, melons, squashes, the turkey; they practiced democracy in their councils and federated tribes; in their art they produced the finest baskets in the world and beautiful pottery, made not for sale but to hand down from mother to daughter through the generations. Many articles of daily use were exquisitely decorated, and the silversmiths and blanket-weavers of the southwest produced wares known throughout the United States.

Mrs. Holman's collection was displayed in glass cases and on tables, blankets on floor and chairs in the two large rooms, costumes, bags and baskets hung on the walls; trinkets, necklaces, small artifacts in trays; and in the smaller storeroom innumerable trays of arrowheads, knives, adzes, and other stone implements. In explaining her exhibit she passed around dainty feather baskets used in important ceremonies, an Eskimo doll with hands and head of carved ivory and perfect as to costume, a tray containing fragments of ancient basketry—sandals, etc.—4000 years old, and broken pieces of pottery from the same period. Hardly a type in Indian art and craft could be mentioned that cannot be duplicated in this unusual collection that is finer and more extensive than in many a large museum in the country.

About forty women attended, and they felt most appreciative of the opportunity, and grateful to the hostesses for their work and trouble in preparing the many articles for display to the best advantage, a task which must have taken many hours to complete. Mrs. D. E. Nixon, a long-time friend of Mrs. Blosser, filled her car with friends in Carmel to attend the meeting. —L. L. T.

IT'S WORTH A SNEEZE OR TWO!

THE TIME IS NOW

- clean out floor furnace pit
- replace furnace filters

Is your heating equipment ready for winter duty? Have you slicked-it-up for clean, healthful and efficient delivery of the heat you will need?

It will pay you to look at your furnace filters and replace them with clean, new filters — your heating dealer has them. It will be worth a sneeze or two to remove your floor furnace or cold air return grill and clean out the floor pit. And you will find that if you do this every six months there will be less dusting to do in your home. Then too, you will be getting more heat and burning less gas.

Why not tackle this job next week end? You will be glad you did all winter.

Aiken-Hopkins Wedding

At a nuptial mass at high noon on Thursday, September 21, in the picturesque, vine-clad St. John's chapel in Del Monte, Mr. Alfred Lawrence Aiken of New York and Mrs. Anna Lee Hopkins of Carmel were united in marriage, Reverend Theodore Bell, rector of St. John's, officiating.

Mrs. Hopkins has been a resident of Carmel for the past twenty years, and is greatly beloved by the many friends who have been privileged to know her. The Hopkins home on La Loma has extended a quiet but always charming hospitality to its close friends.

Mr. Aiken is widely known as one of the outstanding figures in Eastern banking and insurance circles. He was Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New England, and in 1925 became vice-president of the New York Life Insurance Company. Eleven years later he was elected president of the New York Life, which office he held until his retirement in 1940. He retained his connection with the company as chairman of the Board until 1942 and is at present a director. In addition to his association with the New York Life, Mr. Aiken held office as director in a long list of Eastern banking institutions. His interests have been varied; he was a trustee in the Worcester Art Museum; a trustee of Clark University; of Wellsley College; of the Boston Symphony Orchestra; took his degree of A. B. at Yale in 1891 and honorary A. M. in 1918.

Mr. and Mrs. Aiken will remain in Carmel a few days before leaving for their home in New York city.

Four '44s Home On Furlough

Bill Monroe, Alan Axelsson, Roy Parsons and Norvel W. Yerkes, all members of the class of '44, Carmel High School, have been home recently on furlough. Bill Monroe, who is with the Marines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Monroe, and just out of boot camp, arrived on Monday. Alan Axelsson reached Carmel on Thursday last week from Iowa, where he has been receiving specialized army training. Roy Parsons, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Parsons, is just out of boot camp in Farragut, Idaho. He arrived in Carmel September 13, and will be here until Sunday. Norvel W. Yerkes, who has been at boot camp in San Diego, spent a week with his mother, Mrs. William D. Yerkes. On his return to San Diego, he will be ordered to sea duty. While "the gang" was here, members of the class of '44 decided that they would have their first re-union seven months after the armistice, when they would meet at Top of the Mark in San Francisco, each member wearing a white carnation.

Loyal Miyamoto

The many friends of Noburu (Gordy) Miyamoto will be happy to know that he is no longer at the Posten Arizona camp, but has been working in a war plant in New Jersey and will soon be inducted into the U. S. Army.

Mrs. Kellogg Going To Utah

Mrs. L. O. Kellogg will leave Tuesday for Los Angeles. She will join her daughter, Ruth, and they will go on to Toole, Utah, where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. John Kellogg and their two children. Miss Ruth Kellogg is now employed in the draughting department of airplane designing in a large plant in Southern California.

Two Peninsula Girls Join WACs

Katherine and Louise Sandholdt, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Sandholdt of Monterey, are leaving for Des Moines, Iowa, October 7, to enter the WAC training center. They passed their physical and took their oaths in the WAC in San Francisco this week. Both are graduates of San Jose State College where Miss Katherine majored in psychology, afterward taking special work in education at Stanford. She will be assistant in psychiatric work in the WACs. Miss Louise Sandholdt, has served as Home Service Secretary of the Red Cross.

Promotion For Lt. Clappett

David Askew Back

Sgt. and Mrs. David S. Askew have returned from San Diego, where Sgt. Askew has been serving in the postoffice, passing the ammunition that is so important to the boys. He served in the first World War and in regular Marine tradition wanted to help in this scrap. Sgt. Askew will henceforth be found at his old stand at the Carmel post office.

James Greenan Drops In

James Carroll Greenan, who is training with the Naval V-5 Program at the University of Southern California, spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. Edith Greenan. James has been in Los Angeles four months, and his class expects to be transferred in November to Flagstaff, Arizona, for further training.

Mrs. Paul Low's Luncheon

Mrs. Paul Low entertained at luncheon on Monday a group of out-of-town and Carmel guests. Those enjoying Mrs. Low's hospitality were Mrs. T. G. Emmons and Mrs. Loretta Taylor of Salinas. Mrs. James Speakman of Pacific Grove, Miss Clara Kellogg and Mrs. Florence Sharon Brown of Carmel.

Mrs. Kurtz in Byrd House

Mrs. Walter Kurtz, wife of Lt. Col. Walter Kurtz, has returned to Carmel and is now installed in the Byrd home at Valley View and 16th. Mrs. Kurtz, whose home was in Cleveland, Ohio, first came to Carmel when her husband was stationed at Ft. Ord and remained a year until Col. Kurtz went overseas. Their daughter, Mary Jane, attended the high school here and is now at the Anna Head School in Berkeley. Their younger daughter, Martha, has entered Sunset School.

Anne Martin On Her Way

Miss Anne Martin leaves for San Francisco next week where she will visit her sister, Mrs. T. T. C. Gregory until October, when she goes to Reno to attend the inauguration of the new President of the University of Nevada, Dr. John Ohleyer Moseley. From Reno Miss Martin will go to Denver, Colorado, where she will spend several weeks before returning home.

Mathews-McCollister Wedding

The marriage of Mary Jean Mathews and Lt. William Orr McCollister will be solemnized this afternoon at four o'clock at St. John's chapel, Del Monte, the Rev. Theodore Bell officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenford E. Mathews of Carmel, and the groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George McCollister of Long Beach, California.

The quaint little chapel, decorated with white gladioli and white stock, will be filled with relatives and close friends of the young people. The bride is to wear a long gown of ivory satin with veil and bridal bouquet. Her bridesmaid, Miss Marian Church of Salinas, will be gowned in apricot brocade. Lt. McCollister and his brother Perry McCollister, who will act as best man, both Marines, will be in their colorful dress uniforms. After the ceremony, a reception will be held in the Indian Room of Del Monte Lodge, decorated with white gladioli and stock. The bride and groom plan to drive to Lake Tahoe and from there on to Denver, where they will spend a few days before going to Iowa City, the former home of Lt. McCollister. They will then go to Walnut Ridge, Arkansas, where Lt. McCollister is stationed. The bride's traveling costume is a rust-sienna gabardine suit with brown accessories and beaver top-coat.

Miss Mathews attended Carmel High School for two years, the Douglas school, Notre Dame Convent at Belmont. An outstanding athlete, Miss Mathews has done exhibition diving at Del Monte, is an expert horsewoman, often riding in horse shows. She also is skillful as a tennis player.

Lt. McCollister was graduated from the University of Iowa, where he was a member of the Beta Theta Phi fraternity and a champion ice skater. After his graduation, he joined the Marine service and his first station was Del Monte, where he entered the Pre-flight school. It was while he was here that he became engaged to Miss Mathews.

Spiers Ruskell Home Again

S/Sgt. Spiers Ruskell, honorably discharged from the army, returned home yesterday. He received a serious back injury in England and has been in various hospitals in the east and south.

Found a House!

Lt. and Mrs. Warren R. Johnston of New York City have just arrived in Carmel and will be located at Fifth and Santa Fe in the Helen Coolidge cottage. Lt. Johnston, a Marine officer attached to the Civil Affairs branch of the service, studied Japanese and also attended the Navy Military school in New York, where he met and became a friend of Ensign John White, former history teacher at the Carmel High School. Mrs. Johnston and her baby, Wendy, plan to make their home in Carmel while Lt. Johnston is in the service.

Juney Lee Visits

Because she was homesick, and wanted a whiff of the pines, Mrs. Carroll Cornwall (Juney Lee) came down from San Francisco Thursday of last week and remained until Tuesday at the Carmel Inn, seeing many of the friends she made during her former residence here.

Attend Dance at Burlingame

Jerry and Patsy Shepard spent last week end in Burlingame, arriving home on Monday. They attended the dinner dance at the Burlingame Country Club.

DuCasas Here For Week End

Mrs. Elsa Martinez had as her guests over the week end her daughter and son-in-law, S/Sgt. and Mrs. Ralph S. DuCasse, from Fresno. Mrs. DuCasse stayed for a few days after her husband returned, visiting with her many friends.

a party brewing and Saturday evening they all bounced in to give him a royal welcome. Dancing, singing, and refreshments contributed to making it a happy affair. The surprisers were Carla Lepori, Laverne Thompson, Ann McElroy, Virginia Shepard, Silvia Thorne, Robert Hendricks, John Fremont, Harry Hunter, Dick Crack, Delaware Wilson, Baird Bardarson, John Graham, Tex McNeil, Roy Parsons, Alan Axelsson, and Joe Passailaigue.

Jean Varda's Card Party

Mr. and Mrs. Jean Varda, Monterey, entertained a group of friends at a gay and delightful party on Sunday evening. Punch flowed from a gold bowl, there was dancing and the guests summed up the evening as "tremendous". Those who enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Varda were Mrs. Ruth Marion McElroy, Katie Martin, Frances Upton, Zoe Kenrick, Jean Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Webster Street, John May, Jaime De Argullo and Elizabeth, Pvt. and Mrs. Warren Trabant, and Lt. Bernard Priem.

High School Club

Many of the young people who come home for a week end holiday enjoy the dances at The Club where they are able to see many of their old friends. Arnold Pilling took advantage of this opportunity last week, attending with his sister, Beva, and their guest, Dean Warren of Rochester, N. Y., a pre-medic at U. C.

James Downeys Move

Here over last week end were Mr. and Mrs. James Downey, who sold their home on San Antonio and were moving into their new place on Perry Newberry Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Downey are based at Oakland, where Mr. Downey is Western District manager of a large insurance company, and Mrs. Downey is connected with a publishing house as an authority on elementary text books.

Cedric Rowntree Was Visitor

Cedric Rowntree came down from his home in Alameda and spent the week end with his father, Bernard Rowntree, who is at the Community Hospital Annex.

Mrs. Schickele Goes to Berkeley

Mrs. Ann Schickele left this morning for Berkeley where she will spend a week or ten days.

Clarence Dodd Better

Clarence Dodd of the Carmel Special Police, in a hospital in Salinas, is recovering from his long illness. He is now able to sit up, and Mrs. Dodd reports cheerfully that she expects him to be home in about two weeks. Mr. Dodd spent two months in Stanford Lane hospital in San Francisco, being treated with penicillin for a serious heart ailment.

First Stop Tahoe

City Clerk Peter Mawdsley and son, Peter, Jr., on vacation, write home to Mrs. Mawdsley that, of necessity, they shall shortly take to the woods on their projected hiking trip, as the camp where they are staying at Lake Tahoe closes up this week for the winter. They add that they have been enjoying balmy days and swimming in the lake.

Back Again

After an absence of a number of years Miss Elizabeth van Barmveld of Chatsworth, California, has come for a visit to Carmel as the guest of Mrs. Lorna Watson and Miss Nancy Brumbridge.

Bokes To Return

Richard Boke, son of Mrs. Geo. Boke, Santa Lucia and Dolores, will return to California October 1. Mrs. Boke and the children will join him the first of the year. Mr. Boke has been in Washington, D. C., attached to the Nelson Rockefeller agency, I. A. A. C. While the Bokes have maintained their house in Washington, they have spent a great deal of the time in South America. Mr. Boke will now be attached to the Department of the Interior with headquarters at Sacramento. Mrs. Boke, the former Sara Shafter Bacon of Carmel, will remain in the nation's Capital until the children, Sara and Richard, finish this school term.

Week Enders From College

Home for the week end from their various colleges were Peggy Doud, from Sacred Heart at Menlo, Ann McElroy, who is attending Dominican Convent at San Rafael, Carla Lepori, a student at Belmont, Arnold Pilling from U. C. at Berkeley, and Angelo Lucido from St. Mary's College.

What's the Rush?

IT'S THE TELEPHONE RUSH.

Every night thousands of service men and women talk to the nearest telephones to dash with families and friends at home. Most of the Long Distance calls from camps and naval stations are crowded into a few short hours.

Many circuits are likely to be crowded at that time and it helps a lot when you keep the lines clear from 7 to 10 for service men and women.

Back From Mexico, U. S. Mission to India, Dr. Henry Hart, Here

lated Chinese verse, "A Garden of Peonies" and "The Hundred Names," the latter containing chapters on the spirit, history and technique of Chinese poetry, as well as the collection of the greatest and loveliest examples of Chinese verse.

Yet his scholarship is never obvious, it never cramps the ease and charm of his verse, probably because of his great facility in the language, a facility that is achievable in languages only when they have been learned at a sufficiently early age to become a part of one. Such was the case with Dr. Hart, who as a child, "picked up Chinese from the family servants," in the home of his parents in San Francisco. His interest in Chinese language and culture, an interest that is natural to a Californian, he insists, extended to formal study and expanded to include Japanese, study that continued after his graduation from the University of California Law School in 1909 and throughout his active legal practice and service as assistant city attorney in San Francisco from 1911 to 1918, when his knowledge of Chinese procured for him a "splendid business opportunity to go to the Orient."

It is only by taking into consideration the plethora of physical energy that is his, that one can understand the activity and accomplishment crowded into the years that followed, when his translating, writing, research, and travel were interspersed with teaching. He was a lecturer in Chinese art and culture at the University of California from 1933 to 1936, and has been a lecturer for the University of California Extension Division since 1932 and still is. His courses for this fall include "The Countries at War" and "Chinese Culture." Since 1915 he has made frequent lecture tours, and is scheduled for one throughout the northwest when his vacation in Carmel ends Tuesday. His study and research have taken him through Europe, China, Japan, the Malay Peninsula, Java, French Indo China, Siam, and led to such exotic decorations as the Chevalier of the Order of the White Elephant of Cambodia and Chevalier of the Order of the Dragon of Anam. And while he was moving about the Orient he was collecting, until now he has in his San Francisco home a 17,000 volume library of Far Eastern literature, including the largest collection of Chinese poetry in the world.

His knowledge of languages accounts for his service with the U. S. postal censorship department in 1942, and his great fund of information on Japan and China explains the summons he received in February of last year to come to Washington, D. C., his assignment as a major in the Specialist Reserve Army, and the confidential mission to India at the mention of which he adroitly changes the subject, recalling that it was The Pine Cone that was the first to publish any of his translated Chinese verse. —Wilma Cook.

Injunction Stands Against Mrs. Sheets

A judgment was signed by stipulation in San Francisco this week permanently enjoining Mrs. Anna L. Sheets and Miss Mingdon Sheets, Carmel, from demanding or receiving rents in excess of the maximum rent permitted by the Office of Price Administration.

These proceedings follow the temporary injunction issued earlier and the contempt of court proceedings that were the outgrowth of Mrs. Sheets' disregarding the temporary injunction. The penalties assessed after she was found in contempt of court still stand, and this week's proceedings in San Francisco make the temporary injunction permanent.

RAFFLES AT SUNSET TODAY

Men in the hospital at Ft. Ord were entertained Wednesday by Raffles, the talking Mynah Bird. Mr. and Mrs. Carveth Wells, who are escorting Raffles on his tour, have taken every opportunity to give their entertainment in army and navy hospitals. There will be two performances at Sunset School Auditorium today, starring Raffles. Matinee at 3:30 and evening at 8:15 p. m.

Kathryn Brown

The many Carmel friends of Kathryn Morris Brown were stricken to hear that she died September 19 of injuries incurred five days earlier when she and her son, Henry, were struck by a train at Santa Rita crossing near Palo Alto. Henry Brown, aged eight, was killed instantly. Mrs. Brown at one time lived in Carmel with her aunt, Mrs. Grace Boke. She was a cousin of Mrs. Marian Todd, and the wife of Howard Brown of Palo Alto.

FRACTURES HIP IN FALL

Mary G. Burton, affectionately known to her host of Carmel friends as Auntie Burton, slipped from the side of her bed Monday morning and fractured her hip. She was taken to the Community Hospital and is doing nicely.
